Promises Fulfilled: Christianity, Islam, And The Bahai Faith

Synopsis

Promises Fulfilled examines the promises made in both the Bible and the Koran concerning the coming of the Promised One, and sheds light on the principal objections that prevent Christians and Muslims from accepting the Bahai Faith. The book also discusses some of the verses in the Bible and Koran that are the cause of tension between Christians and Muslims. Such verses may appear to differ on the topics of Christ's crucifixion, His ascension, and the meaning of Sonship. As Promises Fulfilled demonstrates, however, no contradiction exists between the sacred texts. In addition, this book introduces explanations from the Bahai writings that can bridge misunderstandings that have arisen between Muslims and Christians, and demonstrates the shared values between the religions.

Customer Reviews

As a Bahá'í, I highly recommend this book to any other Bahá'í. It basically compiles Qur'ānic and Biblical quotes relating to eschatology, end-times, and religious truth, and juxtaposes them with Bahá'í scripture to illustrate how Bahá'ís understand certain themes of previous religions; in addition to showing how we believe previous prophecies have been fulfilled. It's a nifty quick reference guide for dialogue with Muslims and Christians. As a religion major, I recommend this book to anyone interested in comparing Islam and Christianity. It's simply an anthology and not a biased, Bahá'í revision of Christian and Islamic texts. The Bahá'í part stems only from recognizing the similarities.

A well documented explanation of how the religions fit together and fulfill each other's expectations, ending with the Baha'i Faith, the message for today's world.

Very well written book.
